

Cooks and Waiters In Vanderbilt and Plaza Join Strike

Over 500 Desert Jobs; Girls Are Called to Fill Places

Rees General Walkout Leader Declares Only Speedy Capitulation of Hotel Men Can Avert It

More than 500 cooks, waiters and busboys employed at the Vanderbilt and Plaza hotels went on strike at noon yesterday. They immediately affiliated with the 1,500 strikers from the Waldorf-Astoria, Claridge, McAlpin and other hotels, who stopped work two weeks ago.

Managements of the two hotels affected by yesterday's walkout lost little time in replacing those who had quit. At the Vanderbilt, negro cooks and waiters were installed, while at the Plaza negro waiters were used in the kitchens and girls were pressed into service as waitresses.

Phonies General Walkout

A representative of Mr. Marshall, district manager of the Vanderbilt Hotel, declared that the presence of colored waiters at his hotel might mean permanent change in the character of the help employed by the larger of the hotels.

"Colored waiters," he said, "have not been employed since the big hotels followed the trend of business here. If they make good, and those who were put to work have this far, it is extremely likely we will retain them permanently."

Opto Wagner, secretary-treasurer of the strikers' federation, announced yesterday afternoon that there was every prospect of a general walk-out of hotel employees in the immediate future. He declared that the men now at work were becoming more and more anxious to join those now on strike, and it was his belief they would do so unless there was a speedy settlement of the differences between the men and their employers.

Investigation Promised

Union representatives from more than 100 hotels met at New Amsterdam Opera House during the afternoon and voted unanimously to support the strikers. A strike fund is to be raised by assessing each of the 1,000 members of the federation fifty cents daily.

It was announced by the strike committee that Mrs. Ellen O'Grady, fifth deputy police commissioner, had promised to investigate thoroughly the complaint that the four hotels first affected by the strike were violating the state labor laws by permitting women to serve drinks and also to work after 10 o'clock at night. Picketing was said, will be placed on guard at the six hotels now affected by the strike. They are to be instructed, however, to refrain from any act of violence.

Mark A. Caldwell, of the Hotel Men's Association, declared there was no prospect of a meeting of the strikers' demands, either for increased wages or for a closed shop.

Annual Horse Show to Open Second War Season for New York Society

New York will have the opening of its second season since the war began to-morrow, with the annual Horse Show at Madison Square Garden, and the premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House. In former years these two affairs always ushered in several months of gayety and brilliant entertainments, the first few weeks immediately following the opera and horse show being devoted to the debutantes, after which came the more formal and larger affairs for the older set. This season there was nothing of this kind, however, the activities being confined to weddings, informal dinners and affairs for charity. With peace in sight now the coming season, if an armistice is signed, will immediately take on life and activity, not up to the standard of former years, however, for too many families are in mourning and most of the young dancing men are in the service. Some of the dancing classes already have announced that they will hold their meetings this winter.

The Metropolitan Opera House to-morrow night will, as usual, be filled with persons of prominence, for those families in mourning or away have turned their boxes over to relatives and friends for to-morrow night and the parterre row, grand tier and orchestra chairs all will be filled.

The annual Horse Show at Madison Square Garden begins to-morrow and will close on Friday night. The arena has been transformed into a gay setting, with foliage, flowers, flags and bunting, for the affair and the demand for boxes has been very keen. The proceeds will be turned over to the United War Work Campaign. The Red Cross was to have been the beneficiary, but it generally gave up its claim and the receipts will be turned over to the United War Work.

Among the Horse Show boxholders are Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. W. G. Dodge, Mrs. E. B. Penn Smith, Jr., Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. E. M. Brooke Clark, Mrs. Frederick Ashton de Peyster, Mrs. Ambrose Menell, Mrs. W. Foxhall, Mrs. Grace, Mrs. David Wagstaff, Colonel Sir Adam Beck, Reginald Vanderbilt, George E. Fahys, Francis S. Peabody and many others.

Captain P. B. Gilbert
Weds Charlotte Gilder

The marriage of Miss Charlotte Jeanette Gilder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Gilder, of Springfield, North Stamford, Conn., to Captain Francis B. Gilbert, U. S. A., took place yesterday afternoon at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Percy Litchfield, 100 East Seventeenth Street. The Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Church, performed the ceremony, which was followed by a small reception. The bride wore a gown of white satin with a high collar and a long train, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a sword. The ceremony was attended by a number of guests, including Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. W. G. Dodge, Mrs. E. B. Penn Smith, Jr., Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. E. M. Brooke Clark, Mrs. Frederick Ashton de Peyster, Mrs. Ambrose Menell, Mrs. W. Foxhall, Mrs. Grace, Mrs. David Wagstaff, Colonel Sir Adam Beck, Reginald Vanderbilt, George E. Fahys, Francis S. Peabody and many others.

The bride has been for several months at the War College in Washington as a translator of French and German.

Society Carnival to Help Free Milk Fund

The Committee for Free Milk for France, with headquarters at 675 Fifth Avenue, Mrs. Warren McConihe, president, and Miss Josephine Osborn, vice-president, will hold a Carnival de Victoire, at the Ritz-Carlton on Tuesday night, December 31. Every expense connected with the benefit will be donated. The entire lower part of the Ritz will be used, and the Japanese Garden will be roofed over so that every available space may be utilized. Celebrated artists and architects will decorate the rooms which will be transformed into periods taken from European history. The guests are requested to appear in costume.

Five orchestras will play for the dancing and a brilliant entertainment is being arranged.

Among those on the committee in charge are Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., Mrs. Arthur H. Woods, Mrs. Gordon Auchincloss, Mrs. Robert L. Bacon, Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran and Mrs. John H. Iselin.

New York Girl Wedded To U. S. Naval Aviator

Miss Harriet Seymour, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Ayer Seymour and a granddaughter of the late Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer, was married to Ensign George S. N. S. N., son of Mrs. and Mr. John Helm, of Louisville, yesterday in the Chapel of St. Columba of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The Rev. Howard C. Robbins, dean of the cathedral, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her mother, wore a gown of soft white satin and carried a white veil. Her only attendant was her two little nieces, Joan Bristol and Jane Cobb, who acted as flower girls. Ex-Norton, of Morristown, N. J., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Ensign William Pemberton, Flying Corps, U. S. N.; Laudin Wainwright, Air Service, U. S. A.; Philip Dixon and Robert Ware.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother, 57 East Seventy-ninth Street.

Ensign Helm and his bride will go soon to Pensacola, Fla., where he is an instructor in aviation.

Miss Frothingham Is Engaged to A. M. Handy

At a lunch given yesterday at Cherry's by Dr. and Mrs. Richard Frothingham, 244 West Second Street, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gwendolyn Frothingham, to Albert Montgomery Handy, son of the late Thomas Handy, of New York. Miss Frothingham made her debut two seasons ago and is a member of the Junior League. She is a great-granddaughter of the late Dr. E. H. Chapin, of this city, and of the late Richard Frothingham, the historian, of Boston.

The guests included Mrs. John Ambrose Thompson, Miss Edith B. Handy, Miss Louise Herrick, Miss Evelyn Scott, Miss Louis Hall, Miss Charlotte Lowrey, Miss Mildred Rice, Miss Catherine Noble, Miss Margaret Herrick and Miss Frances Van A. Manning.

Soldier Hurries From France to Claim Bride

In the Church of the Holy Communion yesterday afternoon Miss Pauline Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. McNeil Bacon, was married to Lieutenant Harold E. Herrick, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Herrick, of New York, and Lawrence, Long Island. Arrangements for the wedding were hurriedly made as Lieutenant Herrick, who for several months

More Carelessness Found in Amboy Explosion Inquiry

Both Officials and Workers Smoked at Will in Plant, Witnesses Declare Plot Is Still Suspected

Military Intelligence Officers
Seek Hand of Enemy Agent in the Disaster

The problem of where to light one's pipe in a T. N. T. factory was what chiefly occupied the attention of the Senate committee investigating the Morgan, N. J., munition disaster at the resumption of its session in the Perth Amboy City Hall yesterday.

A number of witnesses testified that both officials and workmen habitually smoked within the inclosure of the big Gillespie plant, which blew up on October 4 and 5, with a loss of sixty-eight lives and a property damage estimated at $1,000,000. Other witnesses swore that workers were repeatedly seen carrying matches about the premises, and that no adequate system of safeguarding against this practice was maintained.

Plot Clew Sought

After exhaustive statements by employees, Robert Eldredge, general superintendent of the works, stated that the concern's policy had been to forbid the taking of any matches into the various units or the magazine section, and to permit only safety matches within other parts of the inclosure. Since the explosion, though, he added, the officials had decided it was best to prohibit smoking altogether in the vicinity of inflammable chemicals.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Griffith, of Brooklyn, who was married a few days ago.

has been on duty in foreign waters, returned to this country last Monday on a brief leave of absence. The Rev. Dr. Henry Mottet, rector, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of soft white satin and a veil of old lace which belonged to her grandmother. Miss Margaret Gilbert, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Miss Elsa Howard and Miss Pauline Morgan the bridesmaids.

Miss Gilbert wore a blue satin, with white lace and chignon. They all wore hats of velvet and carried bouquets of Columbia roses and bouvardia. Lieutenant Newbold L. Herrick, U. S. N., was the best man, and the ushers were Oliver C. Wagstaff, James Walsh, F. McNeil Bacon, 3d, and Thomas McClure Peters, 2d. After the ceremony there was a small reception at the home of the bride's parents, 135 East Thirty-ninth Street. The bride's mother is in France engaged in war relief work.

Miss Grace Bart Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Burt, of 140 West 119th Street, announced yesterday the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grace Van Arsdel Bart, to Ralph Lyman McGean, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McGean, of 2314 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland. The announcement was made at a lunch given for Miss Bart by her mother. Mr. McGean is at present at the Officers' Training School, Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky.

From Dublin to the Vardar

It seems a far cry from Dublin to the Vardar valley, but there is no doubt that a large section of the Irish people is following the exploits of the Irish army with close attention, as they may exercise a crucial influence on Irish politics. This section of the Irish people is the disloyal one, who regards victories by the enemies of England a service rendered to the cause of Sinn Fein. But the chief anxiety that the Irish people in Macedonia inspires is that they may bring about premature end of the war—premature, that is, from the Sinn Fein point of view.

The party of sedition in Ireland pins its faith on the next general election. It hopes—and there is unfortunately much to justify its expectation—that the struggle at the polls will result in the practical wiping out of the Nationalist party and the capture of at least sixty seats by the Sinn Fein. These sixty members of the imperial Parliament would not, however, take seats at Westminster—to do so would be a negation of the principles of Sinn Fein, which would establish a sort of national council, the aim of which would be to capture all the machinery of government that is not under the direct authority of the Crown—municipalities, school boards, local police administration; in a word, every phase of local government which depends on the votes of the people.

But the success of this policy is dependent on the continuation of the fighting. Only as long as Great Britain is fighting for her life is there any chance of the Sinn Feiners being able to stab her in the back. The potential aid of Germany, remote as it is, is one of their trump cards. Their second trump card is the hostility of the British government to introduce the proposal to introduce conscription in Ireland. If the war should come to an end or if the Allies should make such decisive victories as to make the early defeat of Germany and the defeat of the British government of conscription in Ireland and elsewhere would disappear.

It is to this possibility that Field Marshal Mischke is contributing his brilliant campaign in Serbia. Macedonia. Every success he scores brings a consummation which would spell ruin to the hopes of the Sinn Fein movement. It can only carry on by fishing in troubled waters and by taking advantage of the embarrassments of the British government. The day the cabinet of London has its hand free of war worries that day the Sinn Fein movement is doomed. The return home of the heroic Irish regiments will cause all the leaders to run for their lives.—Washington Post.

Convicted Spy Will Face Murder Charge

Man, Found Guilty Here of Attempted Fraud, To Be Turned Over to British

District Attorney Swann notified counsel for the British government yesterday that he was willing to turn over Fritz Desquesne, who is awaiting sentence for filing a false claim of $30,000 with a fire insurance company, to the British authorities to be tried on a charge of murder, providing assurance were given that Desquesne would be returned to serve his sentence if the murder charge failed.

Coudert Brothers, as counsel for Great Britain, advised the manager of the prisoner. The British accuse him as the man who planted explosives that sank the British ship Tennison off the coast of Brazil in 1915 with the loss of three lives.

Desquesne is said to have admitted to Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke that he shipped "minerals" on the Tennison which he insured for $80,000. He never put in a claim for the loss of the shipment. He was convicted as a spy in British African possessions before the war and sent to Bermuda for sentence, whence he made his escape after a few months.

The District Attorney will ask for the postponement of sentence on the conviction of filing a false claim of loss pending the result of the British prosecution.

14-Year-Old Boy Held
For Assault on Child

WESTFIELD, Mass., Nov. 9. Jesse Bettinger, aged fourteen, was held in $5,000 bonds in court here today on a charge of assault with intent to kill, when charged with the murder of a child for hearing later. George Stevenson, aged five, is in the hospital, likely to die of wounds received last yesterday, when, it is alleged, the Bettinger boy fired a shotgun at his playmate. The Stevenson boy had "called him names." An X-ray showed between fifty and sixty pellets in the Stevenson boy's body, with punctures of the lungs.

Colony Gives Testimony

On the subject of the guards provided at the time of the explosion, Colonel W. C. Spruance, of the Ordnance Department, was questioned at length by Senator Frelinghuysen.

The colonel said that he arrived at Morgan on October 5 to take complete military charge. He had no idea, however, how many men were under him, nor how many state militiamen were on duty. Toward guarding the plant itself, he admitted, he made no special effort.

Board to Fix Amount of War Plant Blast Damages

For the purpose of establishing the amount of damages to be paid to the hundreds of property owners who suffered at the time of the explosion at the Gillespie plant, the Ordnance Claims Board will begin its sessions here Wednesday next.

Colonel C. H. Penny, chairman, expects that Congress will appropriate whatever sum the board recommends for property damages.

Sing Sing Hears Osborne Will Again Be Warden

OSSING, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Underground wires at Sing Sing were humming today with rumors of the return of Thomas Mott Osborne as warden. Mr. Osborne holds the rank of lieutenant commander in charge of the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H. His friends recall that during the Governorship campaign of 1916 Commander Osborne declared the defeat of Governor Whitman, who had returned as warden at Sing Sing. Now that Whitman has been beaten it is thought Osborne will get back.

New Quarters Only "Dead"

Not Counterfeit, but Air Holes Prevent Coins From "Ringing"

A shiny new quarter that rings "dead" is not necessarily counterfeit. In fact, the chances are that it is only one of the coins containing minute air holes which have slipped past inspection tests of the mints recently. The slight imperfection, invisible to the eye, makes a coin "plunk" like dead.

The Treasury secret service recently has received several of these quarters from persons who believed they had discovered bogus coins. In each case a good quarter was returned and the "dead" money sent to the mint.—Washington Post.

Examiner Hears New Tales of Activities of Alleged "Land Sharks"

Commissioner of Accounts Hirschfeld examined four witnesses whose property had been sold at tax sales yesterday in connection with the tax share sales investigation being conducted by the Mayor's Committee on Taxation.

Miss Emma L. Phillips, of 408 Vanderbilt Avenue, Brooklyn, said that about two months ago she received a letter from Theodore I. Schwartzman, of 189 Montague Street, Brooklyn, notifying her that two lots worth $400 in Freeport, which she owned, had been bought for the 1916 tax of $5.32 by the amount of the taxes and interest. Abram Altman, his client.

Mrs. George Weeks said that she demanded $100 to release the lots. She refused to pay this, she said, and later Schwartzman demanded $25 a lot plus the amount of the taxes and interest.

The witness said that when she threatened to lay her case before the Mayor's Committee, Schwartzman said: "Go ahead. I've had over twenty different people say the same thing. No man on earth can tell me what to charge for my services."

Mrs. George Weeks said that in 1914 she bought a plot of ground in Corona worth $3,500 from her mother. The land had been in the family since 1884, she said.

Pershing Writes To Namesake, Son Of Wounded Yank

Just a day or so after the wife of a Corporal Isaac Cohn learned that her husband had been seriously wounded in the fighting along the western front, an important event took place in Flower Hospital.

When the nurse told her the child was a boy Mrs. Cohn announced in firm tones that he was more than a boy, that he was no less than Pershing Jerome Cohn. This was on September 13, the birthday of General John J. Pershing, and the general was informed of the arrival of his namesake with delay.

A letter addressed to "Master Pershing Jerome Cohn" was delivered yesterday at the Cohn home, 901 Prospect Avenue, The Bronx. The misadventure from France, and it was signed by General Pershing himself. The letter, dated October 13, follows:

"Dear Little Pershing: Although it will be some time before you are old enough to read this, as you are only a month old to-day, I am writing to tell you how pleased I am to have a little boy who was born on my birthday for a namesake.

"I hope that you will grow up to be a strong, industrious little boy, and that as the years go by you will continue to grow both physically and morally, so that your parents may always be as justly proud of you as they are now.

"With our good wish for a long and happy life.

"I am, sincerely yours,
"JOHN J. PERSHING."

Corporal Cohn, who is now in a military hospital here, is a member of the first of Cohn & Son, in West Twenty-seventh Street, dealers in raw skins. He was wounded while fighting with Company M, 36th Infantry.

The Convincing Test

"The U-boat war is slowly but surely fulfilling its task of diminishing tonnage," says Germany, who, if that be true, must be in possession of later information than is known to the Allies. We do not wish to underestimate the submarine; it is always a danger and an irritation. But the records of recent months show that the tonnage losses have not been as great as claimed. Tonnage has not been diminished; it has increased. It is true that our own losses of shipping have not been made good by our own output of new ships. But the heavier losses fall upon us, and the shipbuilding programme is handicapped by the demands for men and materials in other directions.
